

A new conference organised by The Reichenbach Irregulars of Switzerland in September 2017

Reichenbach and Beyond - The Final Problem revisited

Das Hotel Panorama, Hasliberg-Reuti / Meiringen, Switzerland
Thursday, 31st August 2017 to Sunday, 3rd September 2017

Following the successful conference Alpine Adventures - Arthur Conan Doyle and Switzerland, held at the Schatzalp, Davos, in September 2014¹, The Reichenbach Irregulars of Switzerland venture to take a fresh look at one of the most iconic Holmes adventures: The Final Problem. And where else could this take place than in the heart of the Berner Oberland, where the epic struggle between Holmes and Moriarty took place more than 125 years ago.

The new conference Reichenbach and Beyond - The Final Problem revisited will take place in Hasliberg-Reuti / Meiringen from Thursday, 31st August to Sunday, 3rd September 2017. It will feature excursions into the dramatic landscape of the Berner Oberland, sights rarely explored by Sherlockians when they visit Meiringen and the Reichenbach Falls. What's more, the conference will present insightful lectures to examine new evidence and re-visit long-accepted theories around the incident on that fateful 4th May 1891.

The Final Problem* revisited

The starting point of this gathering is that for Sherlock Holmes the Reichenbach Falls is not a synonym for the end of his career, as he first predicted when he encountered the “somewhat sinister figure of the late Professor Moriarty standing upon the narrow pathway which led to safety.” Holmes reached safety and it was the Professor who fell that long way down into the abyss. The Great Hiatus marked a watershed in the career of Sherlock Holmes. In fact, The Final Problem was nothing final at all, but rather the beginning of something new. This is the starting point of the debates that this conference intends to generate.

We have a range of distinguished speakers who will debate which mountain passes Holmes could have taken when he “took to (his) heels, did ten miles over the mountains in the darkness” and how and, most importantly, with the help of whom, he actually made his way across the Alps. Some speakers will revisit certain aspects of the Great Hiatus; others will enlighten us about Holmes, Florence and Italy. We will assess what the three year long absence of Holmes in London actually meant for the universe of criminals and the police force there. A panel discussion will examine whether the Holmes that returned to Baker Street in 1894 was indeed the same one who left London in April 1891, a debate inspired by an observation made by a fisherman in Cornwall after he had read The Empty House.

Moreover, we introduce a Doylean angle. The end of Holmes was the beginning of new literary exploits, such as Brigadier Gerard. For Doyle the years after the publication of The Final Problem were a “period of peregrination” (Pierre Nordon) and one speaker intends to compare Holmes’ Great Hiatus with Doyle’s period of peregrination.

Charming setting, stunning views and dramatic expeditions

Das Panorama Hotel, situated above Meiringen, is going to be our home for this unique gathering. Sherlockians rarely visit Hasliberg-Reuti which, as a matter of fact, offers the best panoramic view of the Reichenbach Falls and the Rosenlaui valley; virtually every room has a balcony offering stunning views.

Das Panorama Hotel, Hasliberg-Reuti, <http://panorama-hasliberg.ch>

The three day programme includes a visit to Meiringen, the Sherlock Holmes Museum, the Reichenbach Falls and an excursion to Rosenlaui. A visit to the charming local museum of Meiringen, which hosts a splendid collection of period photographs of Meiringen as it looked when Holmes and Watson passed through in 1891, is scheduled too.

One of the highlights of this meeting will undoubtedly be an alpine excursion in a comfortable Oldtimer postal coach from 1951 (see picture below) across three dramatic mountain passes to assess the sites where Holmes’ heels might have taken him on his way to Florence. The route will take us from the Reichenbach Falls over three alpine mountain passes, the Susten, Furka and Grimsel. We will make regular stops to enjoy the breath-taking views.

pictures that bring visitors back in a time where it is always 1895, or, in our case, 1891, of course.

We then walk to Sherlock Holmes Museum where we hope a welcome drink will be waiting for us. We will have ample time to admire what is, arguably, the best recreation of the consulting room of 221b Baker Street anywhere.

Friday, 1st September 2017

Morning

After breakfast, the first part of the lecture program starts. Please note that this list (see below) is not complete yet. The organizers are discussing suggestions with other potential speakers and we welcome any ideas for contributions, as long as they fit with the overall conference theme. Please get in touch with Marcus Geisser and Michael Meer, address see at the end of the program. Please note that all papers will be delivered in English.

Catherine Cooke, ASH, BSI, studied French and German, then Library Studies at the University of London. She has worked for Westminster Libraries in London since 1978 and has managed Marylebone's Sherlock Holmes Collection since April 1982. She joined The Sherlock Holmes Society of London in 1980, served on Council for many years, currently as Secretary for Meetings. She won the Baker Street Irregulars' Morley-Montgomery Award for the best article in the 2005 Baker Street Journal, the first person outside North America to do so. She received the Sherlock Holmes Society of London's Tony Howlett Award for 2014. For our conference, she will examine particular aspects of Holmes' Tibetan trip and journeys.

Vincent Delay, from Lausanne, Switzerland, is the founder of the Société d'études holmesiennes de la Suisse romande. He has published a series of monographs on numerous Holmesian and Doyleian aspects and is the author of highly atmospheric detective stories. He acts as curator of the Sherlock Holmes Museum in Lucens, formerly located in the Chateau de Lucens. For our conference in Hasliberg-Reuti, Vincent will elaborate on some astonishing revelations that Lausanne played a part in Holmes' Great Hiatus.

Marcus Geisser, BSI, RBI, a worldwide traveller for one and a half decades thanks to his work with the International Committee of the Red Cross, recently settled in London. Marcus is a founding member and first President of The Reichenbach Irregulars of Switzerland. In 2014 he joined the council of the Sherlock Holmes Society of London as member. His most recent article is Who was von Bork? (The Sherlock Holmes Journal, Summer, 2014). He has is currently doing research on Doyle's formative years in Feldkirch, Austria, and Holmes and cars. For our conference, Marcus will present a comparison between Sherlock Homes' Great Hiatus and Doyle's period of peregrination.

Robert Graham is a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Procurement and Supply and also a qualified teacher of English as a foreign language. Based in Greater London, he works in International Development and travels widely. He joined The Sherlock Holmes Society of London in 1982, and served on Council from 2003 to 2006, he was also website editor from 2006 to 2008. He has recently been re-elected to council for 2016-2019. Between 1998 and 2014 he regularly performed as Dr Watson and occasionally the Master with the Irregular Special players at murder mystery evenings. His passion for travelling and the fact that we hear of Sherlock everywhere will be the starting point for his paper.

Clifford S. Goldfarb, BSI, whose participation in this conference is still to be confirmed, is a Canadian lawyer, specializing in charities and non-profits. Cliff is Chairman of the Friends of the Arthur Conan Doyle Collection at the Toronto Reference Library, and a former 'Meyers' of The Bootmakers of Toronto. His extensive Sherlockian and Doylean writing includes The Great Shadow: Arthur Conan Doyle, Brigadier Gerard and Napoleon (1997) and Investigating Sherlock Holmes (joint with Hartley R. Nathan, 2014). In the hope that he can join us, he will present aspects of his research into Brigadier Gerard, who, arguably, was the character that replaced Holmes after his (temporary) disappearance at the Reichenbach.

Reinhard Hillich, born 1948, looks back at a long career as a Germanist and is the translator of numerous Conan Doyle short stories into German. Since 2009 he works as freelance lector, layouter and translator. He lives in Berlin. His paper at our conference is entitled The Great Hiatus - a Chance for New Rivals of Sherlock Holmes. While the readership mourned the disappearance of Sherlock Holmes after the publication of The Final Problem in December 1893, other aspiring and new authors saw this moment as a favourable opportunity to make a name with their detective stories and set up their careers as writers. From a literature-historical perspective, this was a particularly productive and creative phase. The example of Arthur Morrison will serve Reinhard to show how the great model was copied, modified and partially dismantled, too.

Eva Iggländ, born and educated in Sweden, has been living in Switzerland for 25 years. “I read my first Sherlock Holmes story (A Study in Scarlet) in Swedish when I was 12 years old and have been a member of the SHSL since school days. It was not until 1988 that I went to my first meeting. As this was a thoroughly enjoyable experience I have kept coming back regularly. For someone, who is not very used to the terrain and the conditions of the Alps, it is impossible to cross them alone. This is made even more difficult by the fact that it has to be done in secret, without attracting attention, during a difficult time of the year and without having brought any equipment, not to mention that it only took a few days, we can assume it did not happen that way. That is why Sherlock Holmes must have had someone to help him. My paper outlines the reasons for this assumption, and also suggests who this person was.”

Guy Marriot, BSI, an English solicitor, spent his international career working on intellectual property issues in the music and entertainment industries and lived in the United States for a decade. A Sherlockian for many decades, he has served as Chairman of the Sherlock Holmes Society of London and is its current President. His interests include islands as well as taxis, trams, and buses. He is also a Patron of the London Transport Museum, a Vice-President of the London Bus Museum and proud owner of two iconic London cabs, a 1936 Austin and a 1955 Beardmore. For our conference, he will debate various options for the route described by Holmes thus: “I took to my heels, did ten miles over the mountains in the darkness, and a week later I found myself in Florence.”

Enrico Solito, BSI (Gennaro Lucca), from Florence, Italy, is the former President of Uno Studio in Holmes, the Italian Sherlock Holmes Society. He has run the magazine of the society for more than 15 years and has been a prolific writer about various aspects of Sherlockiana publishing numerous articles in Sherlockian magazines around the world. Enrico is a member of many international societies and author or pastiches (three novels, thirty short stories) published in Italy and Japan. In 2010, together with Gianluca Salvatore, Enrico edited for the BSI International Series “Italy and Sherlock”. He has also published “Arthur Conan Doyle in Italy”, a book of photographs with accompanying research into the trip made by Arthur Conan Doyle around Europe. Enrico’s participation in our conference has still to be confirmed, but if he joins us, he will elaborate on aspects of Holmes and Italy.

Marina Stajic, Ph.D., FABFT, ASH, BSI, from New York, USA, worked as the Director of the Forensic Toxicology Laboratory at the Office of Chief Medical Examiner, City of New York, for almost 30 years. It is not surprising that her favorite topic is the forceful administration of poisons. Her BSI investiture as Curare reflects her dabbling with poisons a good deal. Her ASH nom d'aventure is Lady Frances Carfax, not because she is a beautiful woman, still in fresh middle age, but rather because of her daily exposure to chloroform and her close relationship to coffins. Marina will examine a particular poisoning case that occurred in London during Holmes' Great Hiatus and thus baffled Scotland Yard.

Lunchtime and afternoon

Lunch and afternoon are at the leisure of our participants. For example, the Hasliberg is very well connected with funiculars and cables cars and offers fantastic panoramic walks. Or, this will be your opportunity to pay an extended visit to Meiringen.

The organisers offer an excursion to Rosenlauri and the Reichenbach Falls. Separate booking is necessary and some extra charges will apply. Participants will take the funicular from Hasliberg-Reuti to Meiringen, where they will change to a postal coach to reach Rosenlauri. Details are being worked out, but the intention is to have lunch at the Rosenlauri. Marcus Geisser, whose BSI investiture is Rosenlauri, will deliver some speculations about why Peter Steiler suggested to Holmes and Watson to go to this romantic spot, nestled in some of the most charming but also dramatic mountain landscapes Switzerland can offer. The return to Meiringen - and from there by funicular back to Hasliberg-Reuti - can be done either by postal coach or via a walk down Reichenbach Falls, at every one's leisure and pace. In case you wish to join this leisurely excursion, please get in touch with Marcus Geisser directly (marcusgeisser@gmail.com).

Evening

Dinner will be served at our hotel. This is then followed by a panel discussion to reassess the question of whether the Holmes who returned to Baker Street in 1894 was indeed never quite the same when compared to the one who left London in April 1891, a famous observation made by a fisherman in Cornwall after he had read The Empty House.

Saturday, 2nd September 2017

Whole day

Following a visit to the Reichenbach Falls and a brief reenactment how Holmes managed to escape from there, a Grand Alpine Tour in a postal coach from 1951 across Susten, Furka and Grimsel mountain passes with stop over's to enjoy stunning views across the Swiss Alps will enable participants to assess some of the possible routes Holmes could have taken to reach Florence. The rental of this amazing alpine coach tour bus is generously sponsored by some of our participants, namely (in alphabetic order): Helen Dorey, Marcus Geisser, Guy Marriott and Michael A. Meer.

Evening

Dinner at our hotel.

Sunday, 3rd September 2017

Morning

After breakfast, the second part of the lecture program continues. List of current speakers see previous pages. The organizers are discussing suggestions with other potential speakers and we welcome any ideas for contributions, as long as they fit with the overall approach of our conference theme. Please get in touch with Marcus Geisser and Michael Meer, address see at the end of the program.

Lunchtime

The program draws to a close just before lunch.

We hope you will have enjoyed yourselves and look forward to seeing you at the next Reichenbach Irregulars conference!

Accommodation & conference venue

Das Panorama Hotel, a family run and privately owned 3 star hotel, is located in Hasliberg Reuti which is situated just above Meiringen. Hasliberg has become a popular destination for winter and summer sports. Thanks to an extensive network of cable cars and funiculars it offers ample opportunities for wonderful walking and hiking in alpine heights. Whereas Meiringen is in the Hasli valley (600 meters or 2000 feet above sea level), Hasliberg Reuti is above the valley, situated at an altitude of approximately 1000 meters, or 3300 feet. Thanks to its location on a plateau, our venue offers panoramic views over Meiringen, to the Reichenbach Falls into the valley of the Rosenlauri. Practically all rooms have balconies with stunning panoramic views.

The address of our hotel is:

Das Hotel Panorama

Phone +41 33 972 30 72

Our host is Mr Panos Perreten, who is also the owner of the hotel.

Prices

We have made every effort to keep the prices as reasonable as possible. For example, we have found sponsors amongst our participants to cover the cost of the hire of the Oldtimer coach for our Grand Alpine mountain pass tour on Saturday.

For one person in a double room (double or twin bed, please mention your requirements when you do your booking), with bathroom or shower and toilette ensuite, telephone, TV and W-LAN, balcony with panoramic view, the price per person in a double room is Swiss Francs 390.- (or Swiss Francs 780.- for both persons in one double room). This includes 3 nights, including 3 breakfasts, and 3 dinners (4 course dinner), including taxes. Lunch and any drinks are not included.

For one person in a single room, with bathroom or shower and toilette ensuite, telephone, TV and W-LAN, balcony with panoramic view, the price per person is Swiss Francs 510.-. This includes 3 nights, including 3 breakfasts, and 3 dinners each night (4 course dinner), including taxes. Lunch and drinks are not included.

On top of these room charges, which will have to be paid in advance (see below, under “Reservations”), we will ask for an additional fee of approximately Swiss Francs 100.- to 130.- charge per person to cover the costs of funicular costs to Hasliberg-Reuti – Meiringen – Hasliberg Reuti (Thursday afternoon, Saturday), the Museum der Landschaft Hasli, the Sherlock Holmes Museum, and one or two coffee stops during the Grand Alpine Tour on Saturday (lunch will probably not be included) and the conference facilities at our hotel. We are currently trying to secure local sponsors for some of these costs in order to keep this fee as low as possible. The fee should be paid in cash in Swiss Francs to the organisers upon arrival.

The trip on Friday afternoon to Rosenlauri has to be booked separately and will cost an additional approximately Swiss Francs 50.- per person, probably less. This can be paid in cash in Swiss Francs to Marcus Geisser and Michael Meer upon arrival.
